The Whole Truth and Nothing But the Truth.

That's all—not because we're too honest, but the other way don't pay. We can't sell goods for 50 cents on the dollar, if we did we'd fail; we won't try to make you think we do, for you'd surely catch us at it and then we'd lose your trade; but we do sell for less than other stores can, simply because our three stores buying together enables us to buy for less. Don't take our word for it. Look and compare.

Parlor Furniture.

There's a world of beauty on this parlor floor of ours, almost every period is represented here, Chippendale, Sheraton, Heppelwhite, and all. Does it suggest big figures to you? That's the point, see how mistaken you are.

This little three-piece suit is as clever a reproduction of the second empire as you can imagine, the frames are highly polished, and the coverings are of beautiful figured tapestry. There's no home this little suit wouldn't grace, and the cost is but

NO VARIATION IN SENATORIAL VOTE

Only a Colt and a Wetmore Supporter Absent.

Early Adjournment to Attend the Freeman Funeral.

(Special despatch to the News.)

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 27.—There were two absentees in the General Assembly today when the ballot was taken in joint assembly for United States Senator. They were Lieutenant Governor Jackson, a Wetmore supporter, and Senator Arnold of Westerly, a Colt man. There was no change in the result, the ballot standing as follows:

For Robert H. I. Goddard, 41.
For Samuel P. Colt, 37.
For George P. Wetmore, 30.
For George H. Utter, 1.

The sessions of the two branches were brief today, as a large number of members desired to attend the funeral of Railroad Commissioner Edward L. Freeman at Central Falls early this afternoon, Mr. Freeman having been at different times a member of each branch of the legislature. The senate had so little to do that it took a recess before the meeting of the joint assembly and adjourned immediately afterwards out of respect to Mr. Freeman.

The annual report of the Judah Touro Synagogue fund was received from the house and referred to the appropriate committee.

The committee on special legislation reported the act for a relief station at Block Island, and it was placed on the calendar.

Governor Higgins announced the appointment of Senators Sanborn of Newport and Remington of Central Falls as members on the part of the

JEROME RECALLS MRS. HARRY THAW

Asks Her Questions Concerning Her Brother.

Intends to Have Howard Nesbit Contradict His Sister.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—There were important developments today in the Thaw trial as affecting District Attorney Jerome's future conduct of the case. By recalling Mrs. Evelyn Thaw to the stand, to question her about a conversation with her brother, he indicated that he intends to put Howard Nesbit on the stand to contradict his sister as to a material fact. She denied positively that she had ever told Howard that Thaw had treated her cruelly because she would not tell lies about Stanford White. Mr. Jerome further stated that he would call as a witness for the state in rebuttal Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, who for a time was employed as an alienist for the defense. Dr. Hamilton's last public statement was to the effect that he belived Thaw to be still insane.

Five minutes before court opened Evelyn Nesbit Thaw entered the court room, accompanied by Mr. Delmas, and took a seat at the end of the table occupied by the defendant's council, next to the chair occupied by her husband. While waiting for the trial to go on she chatted with Dr. Hammond, one of the defense's alienists, and with Mrs. J. J. Caine, who occupied a seat close to her.

Immediately after court convened Lawyer Dan O'Reilly led Mrs. Thaw and Mrs. Caine from the room.

Mr. Jerome then said he had overlooked one point in his cross-examination of Mrs. Thaw, and asked that she be re-called for a few questions, stating that it was not merely a matter of affecting the credibility of the witness, but a matter which he might wish to attempt to controvert in rebuttal, and he wished to lay a foundation for such action by calling her attention to the matter. Mrs. Thaw was therefore recalled.

By his first question Mr. Jerome indicated that he intends to call Howard Nesbit to the witness stand to contradict his sister. The district attorney is allowed to contradict traversible or material facts, but cannot controvert collateral facts.

"Did you see your brother at Marion, Mass., after your return from Europe in 1903?" asked the district attorney.

"I did not," replied Mrs. Thaw.

"Where did you see him?"

"In New York."

"Did you tell him in substance that while you were abroad you had been brutally abused by Thaw, who had tried to induce you to tell lies against Mr. White to the effect that Mr. White had drugged and seduced you; which statements you then and there told your brother were false?"

"I did not."

"Didn't you tell your brother that Thaw at a pistol's point had compelled you to make statements against White?"

"I did not."

"And that the statements were lies?"

"I did not."

"Did he not ask you if you feared violence, and you said you did, and he said you should arm yourself for protection?"

"I remember no such conversation."

"Didn't he give you a revolver?"

"He did not."

"Did you give him money to buy a revolver?"

"I did not."

"That is all," said Mr. Jerome.

Mrs. Thaw left the room.

Dr. Charles F. Bingaman of Pittsburg, the Thaw family physician, followed Mrs. Thaw on the stand. Under the guidance of Mr. Delmas, he told of seeing Thaw November 16, 1903, at which time he was very nervous and melancholy. He was sleeping and eating very little, and seemed very much changed from his former condition. He had known Thaw from childhood, and he was formerly of a buoyant nature.

August 17, 1906, he called on Thaw in the Tombs and again saw him September 11. He was not sleeping well and was nervous. He had delusions, among them that there were conspiracies against him, having as their object either his railroading to an insane asylum, or his death.

Mr. Delmas was about to lay a foundation for the questioning of Dr. Bingaman as an expert, but Mr. Jerome interrupted.

"It is not necessary, Mr. Delmas, I'd sooner have, as to this defendant's insanity, the opinion of a general practitioner who has known him for 30 years than the opinions of all the experts there are—with due respect to my own," and he smiled at Drs. Flint, MacDonald and Mabon, who daily sit beside him.

Dr. Bingaman said he believed Thaw was irrational and laboring under delusions. He said newspapers had been woven into the cell bars to keep the draft out, and Thaw told him the authorities were allowing the wind to blow in on him so that he would contract pneumonia and die, and thus prevent his case coming to trial.

Dr. Bingaman felt Thaw's pulse and told him, when he asked about it, that the pulse was a bit irregular. Thaw replied that this was a condition that had followed "the act of Providence."

Mr. Jerome here began his cross-examination by asking as to the taint of insanity in Thaw's family. Mr. Delmas objected that this was not a proper cross-examination.

"I want to find out what tendency there is to insanity in this man's family," said Mr. Jerome, "I want to get at the facts. If I find this defendant is crazy, I'll say so."

"If Mr. Jerome desires to prove that Thaw was crazy June 25 last we will admit it," rejoined Delmas.

Justice Fitzgerald sustained the objection.

Mr. Jerome then said he would call Dr. Bingaman for the state in rebutral, and asked permission to take his testimony in the form of a deposition. Mr. Delmas said the testimony must be taken in open court. Mr. Jerome asked when the defense expected to conclude.

"In good faith and not for publication," said Mr. Delmas, "We expect to get through this week." Mr. Jerome asked Dr. Bingaman to return next Monday. In the meantime he proceeded

HARRIMAN EXCUSED FROM THE STAND.

Member of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Called and Testifies.

Questions as to Re-Organization of Union Pacific.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—After two days of steady examination, E. H. Harriman was again placed on the stand when the Interstate Commerce Commission resumed its investigation of the Harriman lines today. It was understood, however, that his examination today would be brief. Just before adjournment last evening, Mr. Kellogg, of counsel for the government, said that he had only a few more questions to put to Mr. Harriman, but that he would prefer they go over until today, as the hearing had already been prolonged until a late hour. Mr. Harriman took the witness chair a little after 10 o'clock.

Mr. Harriman, in aswer to Mr. Kellogg, testified that the Union Pacific had purchased the St. Joe & Grand Island since last year. The price paid was $2,022,000, and the witness had owned the property and sold it to the Union Pacific.

Objection was made to questions as to when he bought the stock of the St. Joe & Grand Island and what he paid for it, and the witness declined to answer.

The commission ruled that he must, and there was the usual formal refusal.

The witness said the St. Joe & Grand Island was not a parallel and competing line.

Mr. Kellog asked of whom the New York Central stocks acquired by the Union Pacific were bought. Mr. Harriman said they were bought in the open market.

"Were you or any of your associates interested in the sale at the time of the Union Pacific purchase?" pursued Mr. Kellogg.

Mr. Milburn again objected, and Mr. Harriman declined to answer.

Mr. Kellog asked the witness if it is not a fact that of the $22,000,000 stated to have been spent on the Chicago & Alton, $2,274,000 was made up of car trust certificates and $1,000,000 of a loan from Kuhn, Loeb & Co., so that the expenditures on the line out of the new securities sold were only about $18,000,000.

Mr. Harriman said that possibly the figures were correct. He simply knew that $22,000,000 had been spent on the line. The witness was then excused, and Otto Kahn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. took the stand.

Mr. Severace questioned Mr. Kahn as to the organization of his firm, and led him back to the days of the re-organization of the Union Pacific.

The firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., were bankers to the re-organization committee, and Mr. Severance pled the witness with questions concerning the stock issuance, bonding and federal handling of the old Union Pacific and that issued by the re-organization. Mr Kahn replied from printed receipts, and for some time the proceedings were confined to a recital of the details.

FISH SAYS HE BORROWED FUNDS

When Company Was Anxious to Put Out Surplus.

Never an Officer of Trust Company of Republic.

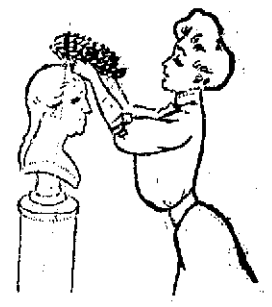

NEW YORK, Feb 27.—Stuyvesant Fish was asked by the Associated Press today what answer if any he cared to make to the accusations which E. H. Harriman preferred yesterday before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"I have little to say," he replied. "I shall not be drawn into a wrangle with that gentleman. He and I sustained close relations for many years, and and were jointly interested in many large affairs. All these transactions, as indeed all transactions in which I have ever engaged, will bear the closest scrutiny. It was at my instance that Mr. Harriman was made a director of the Illinois Central Company, and we got along quite well until he became ambitious to make the Illinois Central a part of the Union Pacific system. I did not believe this would be in the interest of the stockholders of the Illinois Central, for whom I held a trust, and then and there Mr. Harriman and I parted company.

"He is quite right in saying that I borrowed funds from the Illinois Central, but he should have added that the loan was made at a time when we were most anxious to put out some of the surplus; that I hunted from bank to bank to loan our money, that this particular loan was made on collateral which was unquestionably ample and marketable; that several of the other directors borrowed from the company in the same way, and, finally that Mr Harriman himself, while a director, had borrowed from the company in precisely the same manner frequently, and in sums aggregating several millions of dollars. As a matter of business, I did not then regard it as improper, nor do I now. When in the fall of 1903, I desired to re-pay the debt, I proposed to negotiate a new loan from Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Mr. Harriman asked me not to do so, and volunteered to lend me the sum himself, and I accepted the offer.

"Respecting the deposits with the Trust Company of the Republic, it should be said that this institution was one of the many New York trust companies with which we carried accounts; that the sums on deposit fluctuated with the general conditions of our very large business, and that there was no 'padding' of accounts by me. The deposit was never in danger. I was a trustee of the Trust Company of the Republic, but never an officer.

"Concerning the acquisition of the Indianapolis Southern railroad, it is only necessary to refer to the records of the Illinois Central Company, which will show that my action was fully and formally approved by the directors."

Success crowns the efforts of one who knows how to marshal his forces. We have made a success of our market because we know a thing or two about Meat quality and are satisfied with a fair profit.

JEROME FAILS.

District Attorney Unable to Tear Mrs. Thaw's Story to Pieces.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—When District Attorney Jerome caused Evelyn Nesbit Thaw today, with her cross-examination completed, to leave the witness stand, he had kept her on the rack through nearly five days of the court's sessions, it seemed to be the general impression that he had failed in the main purpose of his inquisition, and that was to tear her story to pieces before the jury. Mr. Jerome's last effort until she stood discredited before was an attempt to break down that part of her story relating to the paper she signed for Stanford White, and which the defense contends was an affidavit making charges of cruelty and abduction against Thaw. It failed finally. The district attorney, in his desire to carry the point called Abe Hummel to the stand, and the spectacle was thus presented of a prosecuting officer planning his faith to the word of a man in whose conviction for conspiracy he secured not long ago.

Evelyn Thaw testified that she had never signed any affidavit for Hummel. The district attorney called Hummel and a clerk employed in his office in 1903 to testify that she had furnished the material for the affidavit and had signed it freely and of her own accord. Mr. Delmas, for the defense, blocked practically every question put to Hummel. The witness not no further than saying that he knew Mrs. Thaw, that she came to his office in October 27, 1903, and that he dictated to a stenographer while she was present.

Justice Fitzgerald held that under the rules of evidence covering Mrs. Thaw's testimony the introduction of collateral facts was not permissible. The district attorney is not allowed to controvert her testimony in any way, but may test her credibility.

Mr. Jerome said in open court that he realized that even if he could show Stanford White was in Europe the night Mrs. Thaw declares she visited the mirrored room, he would not be allowed to introduce such testimony.

Mrs. Thaw denied again that she had opportunity to clear up the odds and ends of her story. Mr. Jerome introduced in evidence the school girl diary and read certain extracts from it. They caused many smiles in the court room, reflecting as they did the young woman's views of life during that period.

Mrs. Thaw denied again that she had ever used a penny of the letter of credit Stanford White gave to her under seal before she went to Europe with Thaw and her mother. She denied that she had ever been mentioned in any way in connection with the James A. Garland divorce case. She said Stanford White paid all her brother's school expenses, and identified receipts and checks signed by her mother, showing that the latter drew more than $5,000 from Stanford White's funds during the year from May, 1902, to May, 1903. Evelyn was at school during most of this time.

GOETHALS SUCCEEDS STEVENS.

Major Will Also Become Chairman of the Canal Commission.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—It was officially announced at the White House today that John F. Stevens has resigned as chief engineer of the Panama canal and that he will be succeeded by Major George W. Goethals, corps of engineers, U. S. A., who will be assisted by Major David Dubois Gaillard and Major William Luther Sibert, both of the corps of engineers. At the same time it was announced at the War Department that all bids for the construction of the canal had been rejected and that the work would be entrusted to the supervision of Army engineers.

In his resignation Mr. Stevens requested that he might be relieved as soon as he can be replaced by a competent person and as soon as that person can become acquainted with the work on the canal. The President's acceptance of the resignation was immediate, and no time was lost in making arrangements for a successor.

The President in his letter to the commission requesting Major Goethals's appointment says: "It is not my purpose by requesting this appointment to disturb in any way the present organization on the Isthmus, which is very satisfactory; not to interfere with the admirable work now being done by the present assistant chief engineer, Mr. Ripley and the various heads of departments.

"The work of construction is going on well and will continue to do so. The organization already created is increasing the excavation each month, and can be relied upon under competent leadership to make further and constant progress pending a period within which a new form of contract can be devised by Major George Goethals and his associates if it is deemed advisable to do the work by contract."

In his letter to the chairman of the canal commission instructing that body to reject the bids for the construction of the canal, the President states that the purpose of the contract was to secure in the building of the canal the services of the best, most experienced and most skilled contractors in the country at the least risk to them and at the least expense to the government.

This purpose failed, he stated, as the contractors, whose personal services in the work are what the commissioners ought to have, made arrangements to divide the profits under the percentage bid with bankers and others to whom the contractors have had to look for the needed capital. So that the contractors who are actually to do the work have arranged to accept a comparatively small proportion of the profits accruing under the contract.

No contract can ultimately operate to the benefit of the government, the President stated, in which the contractors' energy, skill, experience and personal supervision of the work are not adequately paid for. The President further stated that Mr. Stevens, the chief engineer, advised against accepting either the MacArthur or Oliver bid. One of the chief reasons for adopting the contract proposed was that in its main features it was formulated by Mr. Stevens, who was expected to supervise the work as chief engineer. His resignation, the President says, takes away the special reason mentioned for proceeding under the present form of contract.

Major Goethals will, in addition to his duties as chief engineer, succeed Theodore P. Shonts as chairman of the canal commission when the latter retires on March 4 to accept a place with the Interborough-Metropolitan railway interests in New York. Majors Gaillard and Sibert will be appointed members of the canal commission. Announcement was made also that Senator Joseph C. S. Blackburn of Kentucky, whose term in the Senate will expire March 4, will become a canal commissioner.

The administration, or at least the President believes that in determining to entrust the construction of the canal to the supervision of officers of the army engineer corps one of the chief difficulties connected with the great waterway's project has been overcome. This determination does not mean, however, that the canal will be dug under the direct superintendency of men employed by the United States government and by laborers hired and paid and machinery owned directly by the government.

In fact, the assertion was made this evening in a high authoritative quarter that the canal would "probably" be constructed by contractors under the supervision of army engineers. Major Goethals is in favor of contracting not only for labor, but for material. It is quite likely, therefore, that bids will be again invited for part at least of the construction work.

Until Major Goethals has had a chance to study the canal problem by a personal visit to the Isthmus the work will be continued under the present arrangement. Major Goethals will sail for Panama Friday. He will be accompanied by Majors Gaillard and Sibert.

Considerable mystery surrounds the unexpected resignation of Chief Engineer Stevens. There are unconfirmed stories that President Roosevelt was dissatisfied with him, but these are apparently disproved by statements made to visitors by the President today of a character highly complimentary to Mr. Stevens's supervision of the construction work. It is said also that Mr. Stevens was not on good terms with Chairman Shonts. From the best available source of knowledge the information was obtained that even the President did not know for a certainty why Mr. Stevens wanted to quit the office of chief engineer.

There are many interesting features connected with the rejection of the bids and the resignation of Chief Engineer Stevens. Mr. Stevens was one of the foremost advocates of building the canal by private contract, and, as the President's letter explains, it was Mr. Stevens who proposed the form of contract accepted after slight modifications had been made in it.

Recently, however, Mr. Stevens indicated that he was opposed to the contract plan, and he also indicated that should that plan be authorized he would be dissatisfied if the bid of the William J. Oliver combination was accepted. According to officials of the administration the contract plan was adopted chiefly at the urgent recommendation of Mr. Stevens, and his change of view in that connection greatly simplified the situation and permitted the administration to reject the bids, which it was inclined to do all along.

Major Goethals was dissatisfied with the form of the proposed contract, and frankly said so to the President. He has had extensive dealings with contractors, and is favorably impressed with the contract system, but prefers to go over the canal route and make a very thorough examination of the situation before making any suggestions as to the manner in which the canal shall be dug. It may be and probably will be four or five months before he is ready to give an opinion.

REAR CAR JUMPS TRACK.

Section of New York Elevated Structure Falls into the Street.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The rear car of a Third avenue elevated train jumped the track at the junction of the Second and Third avenue lines in Chatham square, in the lower East side, today, and crashing into an island platform for passengers between the track, caused a section of the elevated structure, including the island platform, to fall into the street below. Five passengers in the rear car were slightly bruised and cut by broken glass. The car broke away from the rest of the train and swung crosswise on the tracks, and was partly smashed in striking the platform. Three heavy girders supporting the tracks fell with the platform into the street. Passengers in the car were thrown about, but fatalities were prevented by the fact that the rear car did not fall into the street. The derailment took place at a switch.

ELIOT OPPOSES ABUSES.

President of Harvard Says Football Will be Played Next Fall.

BOSTON, Feb. 26.—Football will be played at Harvard University next fall, according to statements made by President Charles W. Eliot, which were made public today. It had been generally supposed that President Eliot was opposed to football and the recommendations of the special investigating committee, which was appointed some time ago to make a report on the general subject of athletics, has been awaited with some concern by the undergraduates in view of the stand taken by President Eliot in regard to football and other intercollegiate sports. In the interview made public today President Eliot is quoted as saying:

"No one for a long time has proposed to stop intercollegiate athletics at Harvard. Last year some people wanted either to stop football or change it. Football has been changed, and so far as I can see it will go on as usual at Harvard next fall. The special investigating committee, which was appointed some time ago, has rendered two reports, a majority report and a minority report. As yet I have seen only the majority report. Football has not been singled out for special consideration any more than other branches of sport."

When asked if he intended to reply in any way to President Roosevelt's recent speech at the Harvard Union, when football was upheld, President Eliot said he did not.

"I have always criticised the abuses of football," he said "and do yet. I think you will find our positions with reference to sport or rough sports are not essentially different."

President Eliot said he expected to make public his annual report in about 10 days, in which he is expected to have much to say concerning athletics. The report is generally made public in January, but was delayed this year for the treasurer's statement.

LITTLE CHILDREN BURNED.

Kindergartners Refuse to Descend Stairway Because of Dense Smoke.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Feb. 26.—Deterred from descending the stairway to the ground floor, which was absolutely safe, because the hall was filled with dense smoke, some 70 kindergarten children in the Hochelaga school of the Protestant School Commission and terror-stricken to the rooms from which they had just emerged during a fire which started in the school this afternoon and 16 of the children were suffocated by the smoke before the firemen reached the upper floor of the building, where they were.

Miss Sarah Maxwell, principal of the school, was also asphyxiated, by reason of her devotion to the children which prompted her to attempt to get her charges out safely. Those of the children on the upper floor not killed were rescued by the firemen by means of ladders.

The first floor was emptied promptly, but on the upper floor the children started out but, reaching the landing and seeing the lower hall full of smoke, they refused to descend, though the way was quite safe. First they huddled together at the head of the stairs, unable, through fright, to do anything, and then they precipitately retreated to the rooms from which they came, despite the efforts of the teachers. The firemen succeeded in rescuing the most of the children, and then a search was made for Miss Maxwell, who had refused to escape by the ladder placed against the window and who had rushed into the rear portion of the building in search of other children.

The fire by this time had made its way upward, and the smoke was so dense that even the firemen could not stand it. Finally, however, they managed to make their way into the back portion of the second floor and Miss Maxwell was found lying on the floor with a child in her arms which she had apparently been trying to carry out, when she was overcome by the smoke.

Stretched out on the floor all about the room or sitting at their desks with their heads bowed on their arms, which rested on the desk were 15 more children, none of them over eight years old. All had been asphyxiated.

A rigid investigation of the cause of the fire and the failure to get the children out of the school has been ordered by the mayor. At the office of the building commissioner it was declared that notice was served on the school commissioners last November that not only the Hochelaga school, but 50 others in the city, must be provided with fire escapes at once. None were built at the Hochelaga school.

Another point to be inquired into is why the kindergarten class, comprising children least able to take care of themselves, were placed in the portion of the most difficult of egress, while the older and stronger children, who would not have been deterred by the smoke in the lower hall from descending the stairs, were accommodated on the ground floor of the building. It is generally believed that had the older children been placed upstairs there would have been very few, if any, fatalities as a result of the fire.

TORTURING PAIN.

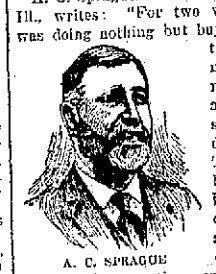

Half This Man's Sufferings Would Have Killed Many a Person, But Doan's Cured Him.

Thousands of grateful people are telling every day how Doan's Kidney Pills cured them of distressing and dangerous kidney and bladder troubles.

Yet other thousands are suffering every day from these same ills. Why? They are either very negligent or very skeptical. Neglect of kidney disorders leads to dropsy, diabetes, Bright's disease and other fatal diseases.

Sincere, honest testimony like the following should convince every skeptic.

A. C. Sprague, stock dealer, of Normal, Ill., writes: "For two whole years I was doing nothing but buying medicines to cure my kidneys. I do not think that any man ever suffered as I did and lived. The pain in my back was so bad that I could not sleep at night. I could not ride a horse and sometimes was unable even to ride in a car. My condition was critical when I sent for Doan's Kidney Pills. I used three boxes and they cured me. Now I can go anywhere and do as much as anybody. I sleep well and feel no discomfort at all."

ALDRICH'S BILL PASSED.

Party Lines Wiped Out on Elastic Currency Measure.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—By a vote of 43 to 14, the Aldrich bill to provide a more elastic currency, which was reported unanimously from the committee on finance, was passed by the Senate this afternoon in substantially the same form as it came from the committee. There was little opposition and none of it was spirited. Three Democrats, Rayner and Whyte of Maryland and Clark of Montana, voted for the measure, and one Republican, La Follette of Wisconsin, voted against it.

The bill now goes to the House, where its chances are regarded as excellent. Before it was drafted in the Senate committee Speaker Cannon and other House leaders were consulted, and they expressed themselves as in favor of putting it through. A rule for its consideration will probably be reported to the House and the bill adopted in short order.

Every feature that was deemed objectionable was eliminated from the bill in the committee on finance, and the Democrats on that committee were so well satisfied with it that they joined in the motion to report it favorably.

Senator Bacon made a suggestion, which Mr. Aldrich readily accepted and drafted into an amendment which was adopted, providing that the Secretary of the Treasury shall distribute the deposits provided for, so far as possible, equitably among the several states.

Senator Newlands secured the adoption of an amendment, which also was first endorsed by Senator Aldrich, which requires the Secretary to make a public statement on the first of each January as to the character of the security required during the year for such deposits.

The bill authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury, when in his opinion the supply of silver certificates of the denominations of ones, twos and fives are insufficient to meet the public demand, to issue United States notes of the same denominations, retiring an equal amount of United States notes of the higher denominations with the proviso that such authority shall not operate to lessen at any time the aggregate amount of United States notes outstanding or to affect the right of any national bank to issue one third of its circulation in denominations of fives.

The bill amends the present law so as to permit receipts from customs as well as those from internal revenue to be deposited in national banks. It also amends the law relating to the retirement of national bank notes by increasing from $3,000,000 to $9,000,000 the maximum amount of national bank notes that may be retired in any one month.

DAM STANDS TWO WEEKS' TEST.

Overflow of the Colorado River at Imperial Valley.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 26.—The overflow of the Colorado river at the Imperial Valley dam has been stopped, according to statements made by the officials. The dam has stood a test of two weeks, and the officials are satisfied that the work will now proceed without interruption until there is absolute assurance against another outbreak of the river. It is believed that the work of building levees will be finished by April 15.

W. J. Doran of the California Development Company says the total expense involved in curbing the river will be between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000. This money has been or will be expended by the Southern Pacific Company, which must look to Congress for recompense.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The Lime Kiln Klub at its annual election chose officers for the ensuing year as follows:

President—John G. Dennis.
Vice President—John Allan.
Secretary and Treasurer—Charles F. Williams.
Chief Decorator—Harry V. Easton.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Janius P. Leonard.

PERSONALS.

....Mrs. Jackson, widow of General Stonewall Jackson, will receive a pension of $30 a month as the widow of an officer in the Mexican war, thanks to the energy of the President.

....It is said in Genoa that the family of the Marquis of Cattaneo, which was in possession of 14 paintings by Van Dyck, opened negotiations for the sale of seven of them to the Berlin Museum, whereupon J. P. Morgan purchased these seven canvases for $500,000.

....Brazilian admirers of the pope have sent him an album made of solid gold. On the inside is a likeness of Pius X., engraved on a gold leaf or plate, together with a map of Brazil to face it. Diamonds are inlaid on these naive tokens of respect. A deputation of the faithful presented this 24-karat book with an address that states the love and respect borne him by 20,000,000 of Brazilians.

....Professor Addison Ballard, who for many years occupied the chair of logic in New York University, is an example of the power of exercise in promoting longevity. He is 85 years old and is still to be seen around Pittsfield, Mass., where he now lives, taking long walks, with a free, swinging stride which gives many younger men some trouble in keeping pace with him. When he was at University Heights he gave several courses in down town schools of New York University, at Washington Square, and it was his daily practice to walk from one class room to the other, some eight miles distant. No student was ever known to share the walk, though many were invited to do so.

HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW.

[John Elliott Bowman, in Zion's Herald.]

1807. February 27. 1907.
Others could see the ancient graven sword
Within its shrine of glass;
He saw the heart that beat so long ago
Beneath the hard cuirass.

They saw, but might not read the mystic sign
Etched in Arabian scroll;
He could translate from symbols still more vague
The language of the soul.

So Plymouth's sturdy captain lives today,
The stripling's hurrying pen
Laughs at Priscilla, and the sweet Mayflower
Of Plymouth, blooms again.

Others could view Acadia's rugged pines
Her sea-veined meadows green;
For him the murmuring woods primeval told
Of lone Evangeline.

Through him a people dull with self-content
Learned from the forest song
A sympathy for those of alien race
Who bend 'neath grief and wrong.

American, self-satisfied, ignored
The lands beyond the sea;
The chimes he heard from Bruges' belfry fall
Dissolved her lethargy.

She woke to know the glory of the days
Long past, to be aware
Of her inheritance in memories
From climes of Outre Mer.

From him she learned the Golden Legend's charm;
The breeze from overseas
Mingled with softened echoes of her own
New England tragedies.

With him she entered the cathedral reared
By the sad Florentine,
And found new grace for prayer. She left its doors
With humbler, silent mien.

The years flow on; the wind-blurred stream may wind
Through tortuous channels long;
Its waves will always greet in fragrant nooks
His flower-de-luce of song.

LONGFELLOW.

[James Whitcomb Riley, in Collier's.]

1807—February 27—1907.

O gentlest kinsman of Humanity!
Thy love hath touched all hearts, even as thy Song
Hath touched all chords of music that belong
To the quavering heaven-strung harp of harmony:
Thou hast made man to feel and hear and see
Divinely;—made the weak to be the strong;
By thy melodious magic, changed the wrong
To changeless right—and joyed and wept as we.
Worlds listen, lulled and solaced at the spell
That folds and holds us—soul and body too,—
As though thy songs, as loving arms in stress
Of sympathy and trust ineffable,
Were thrown about us thus by one who knew
Our common human need of kindliness.

LONGFELLOW'S LAST BIRTHDAY.

[John Greenleaf Whittier.]

"With a glory of winter sunshine
Over his locks of gray,
In the old historic mansion
He sat on his last birthday,

"With his books and his pleasant pictures,
And his household and his kin,
While a sound as of myriads singing
From far and near stole in.

"It came from his own fair city,
From the prairie's boundless plain,
From the Golden Gate of sunset,
And the cedan woods of Maine.

"And his heart grew warm within him,
And his moistening eyes grew dim,
For he knew that his country's children
Were singing the songs of him."

THE SOUND OF THE SEA.

[Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.]

The sea awoke at midnight from its sleep,
And round the pebbly beaches far and wide
I heard the first wave of the rising tide
Rush onward with uninterrupted sweep;
A voice out of the silence of the deep,
A sound mysteriously multiplied
As of a cataract from the mountain's side,
Or roar of winds upon a wooded steep.
So come to us at times, from the unknown
And inaccessible solitudes of being,
The rushing of the sea-tides of the soul;
And inspirations, that we deem our own,
Are some divine foreshadowing and foreseeing
Of things beyond our reason or control.

But I never say it—not very strong.

Court of Appeals Decides in Favor of Vice President Perkins.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 26.—The court of appeals today decided in favor of George W. Perkins, vice president of the New York Life Insurance Company and a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., in the matter of a charge of grand larceny made against him in connection with the payment of the funds of the New York Life to the Republican national campaign in 1904.

The decision is by a divided court, voting 4 to 3. The majority holds that there was no larceny, owing to the absence of criminal intent. Chief Judge Cullen, in a dissenting opinion, holds that larceny consists in taking property belonging to some one else, even for a commendable purpose.

STOESSEL ON TRIAL.

Charged With Cowardice in Sensational Secret Report.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 26.—Lieutenant General Stoessel, who, with Lieutenant General Fock and Major General Reiss, Stoessel's chief of staff, is on trial for his life before the supreme court-martial, is categorically accused of cowardice and incapacity in a sensational secret report on the defense of Port Arthur, by Lieutenant General Smirnoff. Smirnoff was the actual commandant of the fortress, Stoessel being the commander of the Kwantung peninsula. Fock commanded the Fourth East Siberian division.

The fact that these three officers were placed on trial, while the others who were accused just after the surrender have been allowed to go free has been a deep mystery up to this time but the disclosure of the secret report makes everything clear. Smirnoff's report is biased in the extreme and he manifests the most bitter personal enmity. It is plainly to be seen that in the darkest and most trying days of the siege all the officers of high rank were ready to fly at each other's throats.

Stoessel is directly charged with a deliberate and treasonable hastening of the surrender to save his own life, and in defiance of the decisions of two successive councils of war.

Only the late Major General Kondratenko, commander of the seventh East Siberian Rifles, had the confidence of both sides.

Not just pleased with your coffee? Perhaps you are paying a quarter a pound and trying to believe that you are drinking a thirty-five cent coffee. Twenty-five cents will not buy a pound of the best coffee that grows, and you can readily find this out by consulting the price list of any reputable wholesale coffee house. If you are not pleased with what you are getting and want something better, try a pound of our private growth. You will not necessarily have to be a coffee expert to note its superior qualities. RESULTS AND MANIFESTOES.

The President admonished the Harvard young men to go forth from their alma mater determined to accomplish results in politics rather than to issue manifestoes. Perhaps it is ill-natured, but it is impossible to refrain from suggesting that no one ever issued so many manifestoes as Theodore Roosevelt. He protected himself by exceptuating manifestoes which are calculated to accomplish the result, and of course all his manifestoes are designed to promote the ends he has in view. But we will venture to say that all the people whom he deprecates because they issue manifestoes instead of struggling for results do so because they think the manifestoes will help accomplish their purpose; will have some effect upon public sentiment. Of course the manifestoes of the President are vastly more effective than those of any one else.

But what the President means by an accomplished result is a change in the law. There is room for argument whether efforts to change public sentiment are not as useful as efforts to change the laws. We have many laws. There would be no evil worth speaking of if the laws were obeyed. Law breaking, law evasion, public and private indifference to the enforcement of the law and the punishment of wrong doers, are the most glaring defects of our society. It is by no means certain that we need more laws. It is not altogether certain that some of our recent laws are good or necessary. But we certainly do need a better and more effective public sentiment in many directions, perhaps in almost all directions. The men who are making no effort to change the laws, but are issuing manifestoes in the hope of arousing and invigorating public sentiment, are doing as much for mankind as some of the agitators for additional legislation.

PROTECTING THE FORESTS.

The world has been awaking of late to a realization of the fact that the timber crop is one of the most important raised, and that because of its slow growth it needs more than perhaps any other to be carefully protected. Like many other things, this knowledge came only with an appreciation of the growing scarcity of the crop and of the fact that damage had already been done to it to such an extent as to be possible of reparation only after earnest and long endeavor. It is easy to cut down forests and destroy timber, but it is difficult to build up stretches of woodland and develop trees to take the place of those which are unnecessarily removed. It had apparently been a common idea that forests were abundant and it mattered little how much or how frequently they were devastated.

Happily, however, that idea has been exploded and the world has learned that it needs to care for its forests just as much as any other crop or useful natural feature. Man himself has done a great deal to deplete the forests of timber, through lack of discretion, which has led to wholesale destruction of timber of all sorts and all degrees of growth. Lumbering is a necessary business, but it needs to be followed intelligently and judiciously, and that there has been great failure along this line is forcibly attested by the bare stretches of desolated woodland on hillsides and mountains all over the country. Wise selection of only matured timber, instead of the indiscriminate cutting of everything available, would have preserved these forests which have disappeared, and can be reproduced only after long years of labor and waiting.

But man alone in his haste to gain pecuniary rewards from his possessions is not the only agent which has had a large share in the destruction of forests. The element of fire has vied with him to devastate woodlands and has done much to cause the scarcity of timber which is troubling the minds of many whose business makes it their concern to investigate such matters. The prevention of forest fires, therefore, is now regarded as important and means are constantly being devised to accomplish this end. A recent development along this line is the establishment of observation towers on mountain tops and other high elevations, from which immense tracts of timber land can be watched and the first appearance of smoke indicating forest fires can be detected. Such stations have already been tried in various sections, and with such good results that it probably will not be long before this new plan will be adopted in most localities where forests need protection from the danger of fire.

This is a simple expedient, made possible in these days of telephonic connections and the construction of scientific instruments, so that fires may be located accurately at long range and the information conveyed almost instantaneously to great distances, resulting in the speedy dispatch of fire-fighting forces to expend their efforts before the flames have spread far or acquired great force, and so enable them to cope with the elements before they have reached such proportions that they can defy the puny efforts of men to stop their destruction. By this means already many such fires have been checked and the damage has been considerably less than would have been the case without these stations, and when the number of these towers has been materially increased, as will soon be the case, so that most valuable forests will be thus protected, the saving of timber from consumption by flames will be enormous and forests will be spared to yield their material benefit as well as to furnish their natural contributions to mankind.

OFFICIAL PRONUNCIATIONS.

Missouri and Arkansas have been compelled to make legislative declarations how their names ought to be pronounced. But the radical and curious difference between the two cases is that Arkansas was forced to enact the proper pronunciation of its name to save it from mispronunciation by the people of other states, and chiefly people from the North. Missouri is trying to save the correct sound of its name from the mispronunciation of its own people.

Arkansas is Arkansaw to its own people, and that is perhaps as near an approach to the Indian sound as spelled by Frenchmen as Americans can be expected to come. The result of an American effort to imitate the French accent and avoid a heavy emphasis upon the second syllable is a light emphasis on the first and third, and "aw" is about as near as we can come to the French "ah." Missouri, on the other hand, is generally correctly pronounced by people from outside the state, especially by people from the East. The pronunciation "Missourah," which the legislature condemns, is almost wholly Western and is most prevalent among the people of Missouri itself.

It is a Washington tradition that when Mr. Dallas was Vice President one of the Arkansas Senators was a native and the other was not and had never acquired the local pronunciation of the name of the state which he represented. When they addressed the chair Mr. Dallas, with infinite tact, is said to have recognized "the Senator from Arkansaw and "the Senator from Arkansas," as the case might be.

LEGISLATIVE REDUCTION OF FARES.

The lower branches of the Nebraska and Indiana legislatures have passed bills for two-cent railway fares without a dissenting voice. The lower branch of the Minnesota legislature has passed a two-cent fare bill with a whoop. The North Carolina house of representatives has passed a bill making fares two cents, but the senate is willing to make them two and a half cents. Here is another powerful reason for abolishing all senates, national and state. There is a two-cent fare bill in the Pennsylvania legislature, but recent events do not suggest that the railroads have lost control of Pennsylvania. Nothing is so popular as reducing the prices we pay other people.

Secretary Shaw, who is to be the head of a New York trust company when he retires from the Treasury Department, intimates that his acceptance of that position does not take him out of the possibilities for the Presidential nomination. While he disclaims any active efforts to advance his candidacy, he makes it easy for his friends who are working in his behalf by stating that "all the 'Shaw sentiment' was spontaneous and that he would follow the advice of General Grant by neither seeking nor declining public honors."

So it is settled that the United States will itself build the Panama canal, and it is to be hoped that the settlement is final. If an army officer is to superintend the construction, Major Goethals possesses qualifications which eminently fit him for the work. He is energetic and painstaking, and young enough to complete the work before he reaches the retiring age. It is generally regarded as an excellent appointment.

Among the bills passed by the Senate yesterday was the sundry civil appropriation, which carries an aggregate of $114,000,000. New Bedford secures $175,000 for a naval tug, and there is an appropriation for $115,000 for a new light vessel at Hedge Fence shoal, at the entrance to Vineyard sound.

Senator Aldrich has worked his financial bill successfully through the Senate, and it is thought its passage in the House will be secured before adjournment. The bill gives increased facilities with which to combat any money stringency, and is generally regarded as a desirable measure.

It seems to be ex-Governor Utter's turn to give a dinner to his lone supporter. He would be at an advantage over the other candidates for United States Senator, in that the dinner would cost very much less.

Some one said some time last year that this was to be another "open" winter. The name of the prophet has been forgotten. It is an open winter—open for every storm that comes along.

Congress is doing more business in this last week than in all the rest of the session. It was ever thus.

THE MARCH MAGAZINES.

The March Century is a garden number, covering a wide and varied range of outdoor interests—Charleston gardens, Persian gardens, working men's gardens, flower arrangement in Japan, and a review by a Dutch expert of Luther Burbank's work in scientific horticulture. The Luther Burbank review, from the pen of Hugo de Vries, professor of plant anatomy and physiology in the University of Amsterdam, is the article of most scientific value in the magazine. It brings to American readers a new and authoritative presentation of Mr. Burbank's claims and achievements. All the charm of Charleston's gardens—probably the loveliest gardens in this country—is in Miss Frances Duncan's article, and there are delightful illustrations by Anna Whelan Betts, including two full pages in color. In a different vein, and also touching a subject of far-reaching interest, is William H. Tolman's account of "Workingmen's Gardens in France," one of the most encouraging movements of the day. Bertram Grosvenor Goodhue's description of Persian gardens is embellished with many reproductions of the author's drawings. In Miss Zalda Ben-Yusuf's paper on "The Honorable Flowers of Japan" there are many pictures illustrating the Japanese methods of arranging cut flowers.

For those who want to read also of something besides out-of-doors, there are a variety of articles and the usual fiction—the conclusion of A. E. W. Mason's "Running Water," and further chapters, increasing the interest, of Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's strong novel of international marriage and its problems, "The Shuttle." An especially timely appeal is made in John H. Finley's estimate of "The Ex-President," of whom he says: "It will be remembered that he made straight and easier of travel the road by which the people of this republic are to go to their greater heights." Among the notable portraits of the year was Sigismond de Ivanowski's painting of Miss Maude Adams as "Peter Pan," reproduced in color in the December Century. Equally remarkable is this artist's portrayal of Miss Blanche Bates as "Madame Butterfly," which is reproduced in color as the frontispiece of this number, the second of the magazine's notable series of portraits of famous actresses in character.

The Outing Magazine for March is an automobile number. Most notable is a series of five full-page colored plates by Charles Sarka, illustrating Ralph D. Paine's vivid article, "On the Road to the Cup Race." Mr. Sarka's paintings are reproduced in four colors, the scenes showing the picturesque features of the great Vanderbilt cup race. Throughout, the number is freely illustrated, especially attractive being drawings by Frederick Dorr Steele, Hy S. Watson and Lynn Bogue Hunt. The special articles make up a magazine of wide general interest. "The American Riviera," by Robert Dunn, is an illuminating account of America's new play-ground in the South, and particularly in Florida. "Behind the Scenes," by Charles Belmont Davis, is an intimate presentation of some little-known features of life in that mysterious region back of the wings. "The Long Labrador Trail," by Dillon Wallace, begins to approach the end, an end that was won by as gritty and unselfish men as any in the history of American exploration. "Old Times and New in Wisconsin," by Clifton Johnson, is an interesting study in the transformation of a great state.

The chief literary feature of the number is a thrilling narrative by Louis Wagner, entitled, "How I Won the Vanderbilt Cup." It describes in vivid words the feelings of the man in the machine who took the "hair-pin" turns on two wheels, and who courted death at every mile. The fiction features are "John Kendry's Idea," by Chester Bailey Fernald, and "Little Outdoor Stories," by several well known authors. "The White Woodlands," by Edwyn Sandys, is an account of animal life in the barren winter landscape. Other articles are: "Camp Equipment," by Stewart Edward White; "Ice-Yacht Sailing and Racing," by Archibald Rogers; "Horse-Racing Innovations for 1906 and 1907," by W. P. Pond; "The Range of Automobile Touring," by Robert Bruce, and "Making the Country Home," by Eben E. Rexford.

EASY MONEY.

[New York correspondence Pittsburg Dispatch.]

It happened in a Sixth avenue elevated train the other afternoon. The actors were a young couple that looked prosperous, a Bowery type sitting next to them, and a broker sitting in the seat opposite. The train was nearing the shopping district and the young wife said something that was evidently meant only for the ears of her husband. At any rate, he dipped down into his pocket, drew a man's size roll, stripped off a couple of bills, and handed them to her.

At Twenty-third street the young couple got up to leave the car, and the broker saw a two-dollar bill that the husband had dropped. "You've dropped a bill," said the broker, tapping the young husband on the shoulder with his cane. The husband looked down, picked up the bill, thanked the broker, and passed out. Bowery sat for a full two minutes eyeing broker. Then he sighed audibly, "Gee, but money must come easy for you!" he said.

Woonsocket Gas Company Controls the Lighting Situation.

Special Coal Grand Jury Completing Its Inquiry—Increase in Shell Fish Business.

Frank E. Holden yesterday became master of the lighting situation in Woonsocket. He is president of the Woonsocket Gas Company, and yesterday interests allied with that corporation and represented by Mr. Holden purchased a controlling interest in the Woonsocket Electric Machine & Power Company, the price paid being $155.15 a share. The latter bid was made in competition with interests represented by Arthur B. Lisle of Providence, and is an increase of $15.15 a share over the bid made a week ago last Monday by the interests represented by Mr. Holden. Mr. Lisle's bid yesterday was $151.63 a share. If the Holden interests secure all the electric light stock, as now seems probable, they will pay $775,750 for 5,000 shares, representing the capitalization of $500,000 at $100 a share.

The fact that no witnesses were called yesterday before the special grand jury in Providence which is investigating the rise in the price of coal indicates that the inquiry is nearly completed. The jurors met as usual and discussed the testimony given by the large number of witnesses who have been sworn since the hearing commenced. As the testimony has been recorded by a stenographer, as many as a half-dozen or more witnesses were examined on some days of the session, and it would not be surprising if the mass of recorded evidence comprised nearly 300,000 words. The fact that some of the witnesses who were called early during the investigation were recalled later might appear to indicate that facts were developed by the progress of the examination which required more explicit statements from some of the first among the dealers who testified. Just when the report of the jury will be ready is not yet divulged.

A record increase in the shell fish business of the state is reported in the annual report of the Shell Fish Commission, presented in the senate yesterday by Senator Wilbour of Little Compton and ordered printed. The report says the year 1906 will far exceed any previous year in the increase of the shell fish industry in this state. More land has been leased in the past year than any previous year, and the commission believes the conditions of leasing and holding oyster land are more satisfactory at present than ever before. Prices have been high, but oysters have been well developed, though not as large as formerly. There is a prospect of a scarcity of sizable oysters for next year's market, owing to the failure of a set in Rhode Island and Connecticut waters. The set of 1906, though very good in most of the waters, has not been uniform throughout the state. In some places there has been no set at all. Yet the demand for oyster ground has been good. During 1906 there has been applied for and taken out 1246.8 acres of oyster ground paying an annual rental of $10 per acre, and 3072.5 acres paying $5 an acre. This makes a total increase in rentals for the year $27,836.50. The total amount of rents at present is $89,813.56. The amount collected in rents during the year was $52,080.98. The report also deals with the scallop, clam and quahaug industries, reporting the quality good and the supply fairly plentiful. The commissioners recommend a change in the quahaug law, so that suit can be brought against a party having less than a bushel of quahaugs under size in his possession.

A bill providing for a 10 days open season in February on deer in Rhode Island, on the expiration of the present close law, establishing a license system for deer hunters, and providing for the payment of damages done by deer by the state out of the license fees collected was introduced in the senate yesterday by Senator John S. Cole of Hopkinton. The act is to take effect January 1, 1908. It fixes the shooting season from February 10 to 20, inclusive, and makes it unlawful for any person to pursue or shoot deer at any season without a license from the secretary of state. The license fee is fixed at $25 for a non-resident of the state and $10 for a resident, the fees to be turned into the state treasury. The licenses are not transferable. No weapon except a shotgun and no missile larger than buckshot may be used in deer shooting. No dogs or lights may be employed in their pursuit and no person may shoot more than one deer in any calendar year. Deer are not to be accepted for shipment by any common carrier except upon presentation of a license. A fine of not less than $200 nor more than $500 is provided for violation of the act, with the added penalty of imprisonment for not less than 10 nor more than 30 days on second conviction. Each town is empowered to designate a special officer to assess damages to property done by deer, and the damages so assessed are to be paid by the state. Payments for this purpose are limited, however, to $500 annually, in addition to the fees from hunters' licenses.

A bill amending the bird laws to provide a fine for duck shooting in Point Judith pond from a launch or other boat was presented in the house yesterday by Representative Hoxie of Charlestown, and referred to the judiciary committee. A penalty of $20 is imposed for every person who shall at any time of year attempt to shoot or kill any water fowl by the use of any sail or motor boat, or any other than a skiff propelled by oars. Mr. Hoxie also presented a bill to establish a close season on ruffed grouse, commonly called partridge, quail and woodcock, between December 31 and November 1 following. It provides a fine of $20 for each bird killed during those 10 months or offered for sale. This also went to the judiciary committee.

MAJOR GOETHALS.

New Head of Canal Commission Distinguished Army Officer Formerly Stationed in Newport.

Major George W. Goethals, United States engineer corps, who has been selected to supervise the construction of the Panama canal, is well known in Newport, where he was located several years ago in charge of the engineer work in this district. He has been in the military service nearly 31 years, having entered the Military Academy from New York, his native state, in 1876. He was graduated from West Point in June, 1880, very near the top of his class and was assigned to the engineer corps. Following graduation he had a brief tour of duty at the academy and was then sent to Willett's Point, N. Y., in charge of some government work. He remained there from November, 1880, to November, 1882. From Willett's Point Major Goethals went West, being assigned to duty as the engineer officer of the Department of the Columbia. He had two years of this, from November, 1882, to November, 1884. Following this he spent four years at the Military Academy, serving most of the time as principal assistant professor of civil and military engineering.

In March, 1891, he was placed in charge of the government work of improvement on the Tennessee river. This lasted from March, 1891, until October 6, 1894. He constructed the Mussell Shoals canal, and this work is known as his greatest achievement in an engineering way. He also built the Marietta lock in the Ohio river. He was relieved from his Tennessee river work to come to Washington as assistant to the chief of engineers of the army. He served in this capacity from October, 1894, to May, 1898. In the meantime, December 14, 1891, he had been advanced to the rank of captain. While in the War Department under the chief engineer the war with Spain broke out. Major Goethals was made a Lieutenant Colonel of the volunteer army. For several months in 1898 he was chief engineer of the First army corps and served in Southern camps.

When the Chinese troubles broke out in 1900 Major Goethals went to the Orient with the forces. He became a major in February, 1900. He was on duty in this city from August 1, 1900, to June 1, 1903, in charge of the fortifications and river and harbor work. June 1, 1903, Major Goethals was assigned to the general staff of the army. He holds an important position in the first division and is considered one of the ablest officers in the entire service. He is a member of the board on fortifications and as such has done much to aid in the working out of a scheme for coast and harbor defense.

The selection of Major Goethals was due primarily to the fact that he was regarded as the army engineer of greatest energy who had sufficient experience for the important work to which he has been assigned. Another reason was that he is young enough to see the completion of the project.

Major David DuB. Gaillard, who is to be one of the assistant engineers, was born in South Carolina in 1859 and was appointed to the Military Academy from that state in 1880, the year Major Goethals was graduated. In 1884 he was commissioned a second lieutenant of engineers. In the Spanish war he served as a colonel of volunteers.

Major William L. Sibert, another assistant, was born in Alabama, appointed to the Military Academy from that state, was graduated in 1884 and commissioned a second lieutenant of engineers.

DEPARTURE OF THE GEORGIA.

Battleship Georgia left Bradford early this morning and dropped down the bay to the anchorage back of the Torpedo Station. A working crew was then sent to Rose Island, where the naval defense mines which had been prepared were in waiting, and these were taken on board the ship. While this work was going on, which necessitated the opening of the magazines on board, the red powder flag was flying over the ship. About 11 o'clock the Georgia weighed anchor and sailed for Tompkinsville, N. Y., where she will receive a supply of ammunition for her guns, before sailing South.

The New Jersey is still at Bradford and will probably not leave there until tomorrow morning. Captain W. W. Kimball asked for 1,900 tons of coal, which is practically her complement, but with 1,600 tons alongside he believes he has all he can accommodate. The ship will follow about the same line in departure taken by the Georgia.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Mr. W. A. Clarke is confined to the house by illness and his position is being filled by Mr. William M. Barber.

The members of the J. G. T. Club enjoyed a sledding party at Mr. George W. Peckham's place on Beavertail road, last evening.

The northerly wind has brought large fields of ice down the bay today, delaying the ferry somewhat during the forenoon trips, on several of which she encountered over a mile of drift ice. The incoming tide prevented the ice from going to sea and in consequence it has collected in large quantities along the Dumpling shore.

The members of whist team No. 2 entertained the members of teams Nos. 1 and 3 with a turkey supper in the "Den" last evening, after which the first round of the fourth series of club whists was played, resulting in team No. 2 taking the lead, with team No. 1 a close second. The affair was a social success. The score was: Team No. 2 won 61; team No. 1 won 58; team No. 3 won 50.

THE CARPENTER COMPANY.

Frankie Carpenter, at the Opera House this week, in a list of plays written especially for her, is giving entertainments which please all classes of theatre-goers and attract a good crowd to each matinee and evening performance. "Lisbeth from Hickory Hollow" and "Pawn Ticket 210" were the two plays given yesterday. "The Garrison Girl," a comedy drama by Edwin Barbour, is a play in which Miss Carpenter and the entire company are well cast. Another play by the same author, "Shelter Bay," has made a big hit in other New England cities. Miss Carpenter has played it more than 20 times in some of the towns, but the play is new here and will be staged with special scenery Saturday evening a new play by Edwin Barbour will have its first production in this city. It is said to be one of the best this popular company ever attempted, and was a hit at Lynn last week, whence the company came here.

MOVING GUN TURRETS.

All the battleships possessing modern turrets will be equipped with the new electrical turning gear. Formerly there was a theory that the most efficient turret was that which could be turned most rapidly, the idea being to fix the gun upon the target with the least loss of time. This has all been changed now, and the theory is to operate the turret so that it may be turned and the guns trained with the greatest precision of movement and delicacy of aim.

This has been accomplished in such a successful degree that the turret may be turned in a way which is not perceptible to the eye. The minimum rate will equal one revolution of the turret in 30 hours. This is considered sufficiently slow to permit the sun to be held on a target which is moving slowly at a great distance. The movement is considered most advantageous in all respects, and is accepted as increasing the efficiency of turret operation.

—The work of filling the ice boxes of the Newport Beef Company, near the depot, has been finished by the Independent Ice Company.

—Only Admiral Chadwick appeared for the monthly meeting of the Park Commission yesterday. There was no quorum, and no meeting.

—Tuesday afternoons during Lent Rev. Stanley C. Hughes is giving in Kay Chapel a series of meditations on the "Sermon on the Mount."

—Mrs. W. S. Wells is here to inspect the work on the new flower garden at "Chetwode," for the last time before she sails for Europe, March 12.

—The big iron pipe for the repairs to the main sewer outlet has arrived and been carted to Briggs wharf, ready for the contractor to handle it.

—J. A. Farley, S. B. Reynolds, Charles Stark and Paul Beegel of New York and E. O. Johnson and C. H. Pratt of Boston are registered at the Perry House.

—Herbert L. Dyer has rented for Bedros Kazanjian the second and third floors of his building on the corner of Bellevue avenue and DeBlois street for apartments, to be known as The Beresford.

—Treasurer Philip F. Conroy of Newport Council, 134, Catholic Benevolent Legion, has paid the beneficiary of the late Nathaniel Watson the sum of $2,000, the amount of his certificate in the Legion.

—The damage to No. 1 reel by the accident yesterday morning was not so serious as was at first feared and Chief Kirwin expects to have it in commission tomorrow. The men are all right for another alarm.

—Among today's arrivals at the United States Hotel are H. Miller of Boston, G. B. Stavers, G. H. Smith and J. M. Williams of Providence; J. J. Jones of Fall River and Joe Burke and G. L. Grouser of New York.

—Francois Richard of New York has begun a suit against A. G. Vanderbilt for the price of an auto car which Richard says Mr. Vanderbilt ordered but refused to accept. The case is expected to come up in New York in two weeks.

—At the study class of the Civic League, at the home of Mrs. M. S. W. Marsh on Mt. Vernon street tomorrow afternoon, the subject, "Means of Beautifying the City," will be discussed by Mrs. Harry B. Wilks and Miss Maud Stevens.

—It felt too warm this morning for an overcoat, but this afternoon the wind from the northeast began to pipe up and the temperature dropped some, and one could tell that overcoats were still quite essential parts of an outdoor outfit.

—Today is the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of the poet Longfellow, and that is why the flags are flying at the schoolhouses. The pupils in the various schools remembered the day by short recitations of some favorite poem by Longfellow, and at the high school his works were taken for the English lesson.

—The body of Julyan Klimasiewski, one of the victims of the Larchmont wreck, which was picked up at Block Island Monday, was brought over from the Island this morning and sent to Providence, via Wickford, this afternoon. The deceased was a resident of Providence and the body was identified by receipts found in his clothing.

—The repair gang of the Providence Telephone Company, which has been at work straightening out the land lines of the company at Block Island, returned today. The men went to the island when the news of the Larchmont disaster showed that the island telephone service was in poor condition and have been engaged two weeks in the work of rebuilding the lines.

—The easterly wind has helped clear some of the ice from the inner harbor and today the water in front of Long wharf and between it and Commercial wharf was practically clear, except in the angle from the City wharf to the Government Landing. South of Commercial wharf, where steamers have not disturbed it, the ice is still in possession. Little is seen in the bay to the north.

—Mr. Thomas E. Sherman, for years with the Arctic Ice Company, has joined the forces of the new Independent Ice Company, the work of harvesting for next season being finished before the change was made. Mr. Sherman has long been with the fish men at Long wharf, and as the new company is to be the fish men's company the change for him will be little, as he will still be found on Long wharf when the fishermen come in.

—Today First Lieutenant W. C. Metcalf and Second Lieutenants W. M. Colvin, F. H. Phipps, Jr., D. I. McKay and F. B. Upham left Fort Adams for Fort Banks to take examinations for promotion. First Lieutenant Roy I. Tayler, also at Fort Adams, having graduated last fall from the artillery school at Fortress Monroe, is eligible for promotion without further examination, his examination at graduation being considered sufficient.

—John Edward Littlefield, a well known citizen of Block Island, died Saturday afternoon, after an illness of three days. He kept a general store on the west side of the island, was about 54 years old and the son of Rev. Ezekial Littlefield, who formerly lived on Block Island. He leaves a widow and a step-daughter. Mr. Littlefield died on the third anniversary of his marriage and was buried on the fifty-fourth anniversary of his birth.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian Church held a social in the parlors last evening. The fact that the price of admission was reduced according to the amount of old rubber contributed produced the goodly sum of 500 pounds. There was an enjoyable entertainment, consisting of piano solos by Mr. H. Ward Thompson, the church organist; soprano and contralto solos by Miss Annie Goddard Bullock and Miss Gertrude Downing, and interesting readings by Rev. Dr. Webb, after which a collation was served.

LADIES' NIGHT.

Members and Friends Entertained by the Newport Horticultural Society.

One of the most enjoyable, and to many the most enjoyable, entertainments ever given by the Newport Horticultural Society took place last evening in the society's hall. It was ladies' night, and the hall was filled to its utmost capacity with members and their friends. To add to the attractiveness of the room there was a bountiful display of cut flowers and rare palms.

The entertainment committee, of which Mr. John T. Allan was chairman, had arranged a program which opened with a piano selection by Mr. Victor Baxter, followed by a vocal selection by Mr. Augustus Hazard Swan and a group of three songs by Mr. L. H. Walker of Taunton, one of the latter having been written by Hans Schneider of Providence and dedicated by him to Mr. Thomas Livingston of this city, Miss Lillian E. Maher recited "The Indian Chieftain's Daughter" and responded with an encore. Master Richard Rosson gave a violin solo which showed a remarkable mastery of that instrument for one so young. Mr. Thomas B. Connolly sang two selections, Master Jack Allan sang and responded to a hearty encore with the popular song, "The Bird on Nelly's Hat." Miss Maher recited "Lochinvar" and as an encore Eugene Field's "Winken, Blinken and Nod." Mr. Walker sang by request "Genevieve."

Here the program was interrupted for a collation, served by Mr. F. H. Wiswell of the Perry House, which was not behind in quality or quantity, the remainder of the program. After a social hour following the serving of the refreshments, the program was continued, the various participants giving additional selections, and Mr. H. W. Rankin giving a humorous recitation entitled "The New City Charter," in which the local hits were much appreciated.

The singers were all in excellent voice. Mr. Swan's selections were admirably chosen and rendered in his usual excellent style. Mr. Walker gave his selections in that expressive manner for which he is well known and his "request" numbers, "Genevieve" and "Face to Face," were received with unusual expressions of appreciation. Mr. Connolly, although suffering slightly from a cold, gave great satisfaction, and Master Allan, although a trifle nervous at first, rose to the occasion and made a hit with the audience. Master Rosson's violin numbers were well received, and Mr. Baxter in his piano numbers and his accompaniments for the vocalists, instrumentalist and reader was all that could be desired. Miss Maher maintained her reputation as a conscientious, forceful reader.

LEISURE FOR FIREMEN.

Measure Before House Provides Four Days Off Duty Every Month for Active Members.

A bill to provide the active firemen all over the state with four days exemption from duty each month was presented in the house of representatives yesterday by Mr. Bliss of Cranston and referred to the judiciary committee. The text of the bill is as follows:

"Section 1. All permanent men in the several fire departments of the cities and towns of this state shall be allowed four days exemption from duty in each month, without loss of pay, and the days on which each fireman shall be exempted from duty shall be designated by the chief engineer of the fire department of the several cities and towns.

"Sec. 2. In case of emergency exemption from duty or absence shall be subject to revocation in the discretion of the Chief Engineer of the fire department.

"Sec. 3. This act shall take effect July 1, 1907."

The bill is accompanied by a petition, signed by John H. Davis, chairman of the committee of the Rhode Island State Firemens' League, setting forth that a committee consisting of John H. Barber of Central Falls, William H. Erskine of Albion, George Hunt of Providence, Levi Winchester of East Providence and John H. Davis of Pawtucket had been appointed by the league with instructions to draft and present such an act to the General Assembly.

DIVORCE STATISTICS.

[New York Tribune.]

The shaking of the bones in the national skeleton closet has proceeded far enough to furnish preliminary estimates of the divorce statistics. It is figured that for the 20-year period from 1887 to 1906 the applications filed for divorce throughout the country reached the total 1,400,000 and probably on these applications about 1,000,000 divorces were granted. In the 20-year period from 1867 to 1886 the number of divorces secured was 328,000. That the growth in population does not warrant such an increase in divorces is shown by comparison of divorces to population—33 divorces to every 100,000 of population during the earlier period and 70 to every 100,000 during the later. Thus there has been in the last 20-years about twice as much martial unhapiness, or at any rate, twice as many escapes from it.

The figures are not given in detail, but if the rate of divorce has been progressive, 70 to 100,000, which represents the average for 20 years, is probably considerably lower than the rate for the last two or three of the 20 years. Seventy divorces to every 100,000 persons does not seem a prodigious number, but, of course, the true basis for comparison is of divorces to marriages, not total population. The figures for making this comparison have not been published. If there has been a falling off in the marriage rate, while the divorce rate has been doubling, the increase becomes more significant.

EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS

FOR MARCH, 1907.

Of all 'round merit and variety is the Edison list for March. At the same time there are several new and attractive features. A new Edison combination, the Edison Venetian Trio, composed of violin, flute and harp, makes the first Record by these instruments ever listed in our catalogues. And a delightful Record it is, too. The Edison Military Band plays Sousa's famous "High School Cadets' March" just as Sousa plays it, and it's great. Len Spencer makes a solo Record with a hand-organ as its chief feature. The naturalness of the hand-organ would deceive any one. Steve Porter's recital of Flanagan's troubles in a restaurant is real fun. J. W. Myers has another well-rendered ballad. S. H. Dudley shows that he is still a whistler of the first rank. Hear them at

MR. LOEB LEFT OUT.

Movement to Raise Salary of Secretary to the President.

J. Adam Bede Says Cortelyou is Cabinet Officer at Large—Tillman's Drum and Fife.

(Washington correspondence of the News.)

WASHINGTON, Feb 26.—Friends of William Loeb, Jr., the secretary to the President, are advocating the raising of Mr. Loeb's salary. It appears that Congress, which increased the salaries of Senators and Representatives, adding 50 per cent, a few weeks ago, overlooked the secretary to the President, whose salary is the same as that of members of Congress. After March 4 all Senators and Representatives will get $7,500 a year. Unless Congress takes action the salary of Mr. Loeb will remain at $5,000. It is generally conceded that he should get the 50 per cent increase, his work being as arduous as that of any member of either house of Congress. In fact, the President's secretary is perhaps the busiest man in Washington. He must be a man of high ability to hold such an important place. His tact and diplomacy must be cultivated to a fine point. Even then he is not always happy in his relations with the people. Now and then the secretary to the President is compelled to take the blame for things which really originate "higher up." That is one of the penalties of the position.

It is pointed out as a reason why Mr. Loeb should have the increase that no governmental official, unless it be the Secretary of State, has matters of larger importance pass through his hands. Moreover, a lot of folks that don't like the treatment they may get at the White House fall into the fashion of abusing Mr. Loeb for it. No official in the government is more regularly abused than the President's secretary.

Secretary Loeb has been with Mr. Roosevelt ever since the latter was governor of New York. He is a tireless worker and a man of tact and good common sense. These qualities are quite essential to the position.

Representative Rodenberg of Illinois was entertaining a party of friends, among them several ladies, by showing them the sights of the Capitol. As they sat in the House gallery the uniform of M. C. Latta, one of the President's secretaries, appeared, and Mr. Rodenberg told his friends that business would be suspended while a message from the President was received. "Is this the first from him today?" asked one of the ladies quite innocently.

"Evidently you have been reading the newspapers," said the Illinois Congressman.

The special messages sent in by the President recently have not been as numerous as during the first weeks of the session, but his record in that respect is still far ahead of those of any of his predecessors.

Senators smoke during executive sessions. This grave secret has just been revealed. After a recent secret sitting Senator Lodge of Massachusetts forgot the rules forbidding smoking in open sessions and went about the Senate chamber with a fine Perfecto in his mouth. The pages tried to head him off, but did not succeed. He continued to enjoy the weed until the Senate adjourned.

Of the several humorous incidents that have marked the Brownsville investigation before the Senate military affairs committee the most amusing grew out of a question put by Senator Warner of Missouri. "Now, she here," he said to one of the negro ex-soldiers who was on the stand, "how many shots did you hear the night of the riot before you woke up?"

"Cabinet officer at large" is the title which Representative J. Adam Bede has conferred on Postmaster General Cortelyou. "When Mr. Cortelyou comes down town in the morning, he just drops into any department and runs it for the day," says the Minnesota Congressman. Mr. Cortelyou has been Secretary of Commerce and Labor, is now Postmaster General and after March 4 will be Secretary of the Treasury.

At an informal gathering at the Cosmos Club it was decided to fine any member who talked shop $1. The club is composed of scientists and professional men, many of whom like to talk shop. The threatened fine restrained all, however, and the gathering was about to disperse without action when Professor Willis Moore got up to go and said "Good night." It was a very bad night, and Professor Moore being the weather man, it was decided that he had violated the rule. The fine was imposed accordingly.

Even the best of the debaters in Congress get mixed occasionally in the heat of action on the floor. In the course of his remarkable tirade on the race question a day or two ago Senator Tillman of South Carolina, whose parts of speech are usually looked after with great care, tripped in a very noticeable way.

"In 1876," he declared, "negro militiamen used to drum up the roads in South Carolina with a fife."

FISH MISUSED FUNDS.

Harriman Makes Sensational Charge Before Interstate Commission.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The bitter warfare between E. H. Harriman and Stuyvesant Fish broke out today in a sensational manner at the hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission, when Harriman charged Fish, whom he deposed from the presidency of the Illinois Central Railroad, with having misused the funds of that company when he was at its head. He declared with emphasis and with a voice in which firmness and decision were the predominating notes that Fish deposited $500,000 of the railroad's funds with the Trust Company of the Republic, of which he was then a director; asserted that he had been forced by his directors to withdraw that sum on account of the condition of the trust company, and said that he had subsequently put the money back into the same trust company to "pad its accounts."

The attack on Fish is said to have been threatened ever since Fish was removed from the Illinois Central presidency and it was accepted as a foregone conclusion that it would be made sooner or later, but when it came it was made under wholly unexpected circumstances, and it created tremendous excitement, not only among those at the hearing, but among financial interests generally, for the news flew through the city with almost incredible speed.

When Mr. Fish learned of the charges he quickly stated he was prepared to go before the commission, deny the accusations and explain everything that Mr. Harriman has charged against him.

Mr. Harriman appeared to have conceived on the spot his purpose to make the attack today, but at the same time it was evident that he had long had the matter in contemplation and had prepared himself to free his mind fully whenever he considered the time and circumstances opportune.

When Mr. Harriman made the attack there was nothing in any question put to him to suggest his subsequent statement. Even his own lawyers, seeming to anticipate something of the kind, tried to stop him, but he waived them aside with limitless patience and continued in the most determined manner, his whole bearing showing that he would brook no restraint. After telling of the padding of accounts by Fish, Mr. Harriman went on to assert that he had helped out Mr. Fish himself at this time by loaning him money, that Mr. Fish had loaned to himself vast amounts of the funds of the Illinois Central, and that after the collapse of the Trust Company of the Republic Mr. Fish had again loaned money to the Commonwealth Trust Company, the successor of the Trust Company of the Republic, in order, Mr. Harriman said, to pad the accounts there.

"He looked upon the Illinois Central as his own personal property," said Mr. Harriman.

Mr. Harriman was much less free to answer questions today than he had been in the earlier stages of the hearing and in view of his reluctance to tell about matters covering his own stock deals, it is almost certain that the attorneys for the government will ask the United States courts to compel him to answer. In questions put to him by the commissioners themselves they showed plainly that they thought no matter what legal right Mr. Harriman might claim in the matter, there was every moral reason why he should answer them.

Awful Dyspepsia.

A robber of comfort and happiness.

No one who has suffered from dyspepsia in any form, will deny that it robs one of strength, comfort and happiness, makes everything look black, destroys ambition.

When the stomach does not digest properly, it fills up with poisonous gasses which cause it to inflate in all directions and crowd on the other organs. This is the cause of so many heart, kidney, liver troubles which Dr. Richards Dyspepsia Tablets will remove by removing the cause.

Dr. Richards Dyspepsia Tablets will cure the most tenacious cases. They have done it for others and they will do it for you.

I, myself, consider them the best that have ever come under my notice and shall always speak of them in glowing terms, for I know what dyspepsia is and to get relief so quickly is a wonderful thing."

A SOCIAL EVENING.

Members of Unity Club Entertained With Selections by Mrs. Dadmun and Readings by Dr. Webb.

At the entertainment in charge of the social committee at the Unity Club last night it was first voted that the proceeds of the entertainment to be given by the Helpfulness committee, March 19, should be devoted to the Nina Lynette Home for the Aged. The formal program of the evening was then begun by a selection from "Lucky Dollars," well played by the Harmonia Instrumental Quartette, consisting of Miss Lillian L. Sinester, pianist; Messrs. George H. Bryant, Joseph Blaine and Archibald Sherman. Rev. Aquilla Webb, Ph. D., then read with good effect a cutting from "Ben Hur" entitled "A Leper Princess," after which Mrs. A. H. Dadmun, accompanied by Mr. A. H. Dadmun, sang "Sigh No More, Ladies" and "It Was a Lover and His Lass," the latter from "As You Like It." The music of "Sikh No More, Ladies"—Thomas Morley—was written in the fifteenth century, as was also that of "It Was a Lover and His Lass"—A. J. Stevens.

Dr. Webb next read a cutting from "Nicholas Nickleby" and his work was indeed a revelation. He possesses an excellent memory, a fair enunciation and a remarkable skill in impersonation and facial expression. The characterization of Squeers was excellent, as was also that of the farmer in "When the Frost is on the Punkin"—James Whitcomb Riley—which was given as an encore. Mrs. Dadmun then gave a pleasing selection, "The Spring Has Come Again," and the enjoyable program was brought to a close by two selections excellently rendered by the Harmonia String Quartette.

FOR STOMACH SUFFERERS.

Don't Use Any Remedy That Keeps Its Formula a Secret.

People Who Are Troubled With Stomach Weakness Cannot Afford to Use Any Remedy Unless They Know What It Contains.

Mi-o-na is not a mere digestive glying only temporary relief, but a specific for all disorders of the digestive organs; and so effects a permanent cure for stomach troubles.

Your physician will tell you that nothing is better than a combination of chemically pure bismuth subgallate to allay any inflammation of the stomach and bowels; cerium oxalate, to strengthen the stomach nerves; sodium bi-carbonate, which neutralizes the poisonous acids that are present in stomach troubles; and nux vomica, which will restore vigor to the digestive organs and tone the whole nervous system.

This combination is found only in Mi-o-na stomach tablets, and it so rarely fails to strengthen the digestive system and cure all forms of stomach disorders, that Wright & Hay sell the remedy under a guarantee to refund the money unless it cures.

Dyspepsia suffer from indigestion, distress after eating, specks before the eyes, headaches, pains in the back and side, emaciation, bloating, nervousness, sleeplessness, or any of the other symptoms of stomach troubles, begin the use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets at once. Wright & Hay sells them in 50c. boxes with a guarantee to refund money unless they cure.

Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation.

The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A tonic-laxative Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenuous and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

No griping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

JEROME RECALLS MRS. HARRY THAW.

to cross-examine him about his visits to the Tombs.

Dr. Bingaman said Thaw had not exhibited any delusions or evidence of irrationality so far as he knew prior to the tragedy of June 25 last. At his visit of August 17, he prescribed a nerve tonic for the prisoner.

"Did you notice any exaggerated ego?" asked Mr. Jerome.

"He had a very high esteem of himself, but there was nothing else."

Dr. Bingaman was here excused, and Dr. Britton D. Evans, one of the alienists for the defense, called for cross-examination. After some questions regarding the education of the witness, Mr. Jerome picked up a pamphlet relating to experts and expert testimony which Dr. Evans admitted he had written. Mr. Jerome formed several questions in the language of the pamphlet, but Mr. Delmas's objections to these questions were sustained by Justice Fitzgerald.

Dr. Evans testified that he was summoned to investigate the government hospital for the insane at Washington and report to the Congressional committee having the matter in charge.

"As amateur of fact, wasn't every head of an institution for the insane in the East likewise summoned?"

"On the contrary, I know they were not."

"Name some one who was not."

"Dr. Wagner."

"Do you know what insanity is?" asked Mr. Jerome.

"Insanity is a positive condition; sanity is a negative condition."

"Who retained you in this case?"

"Mr. Hartridge."

ON SITE OF OLD NEWGATE.

New Central Criminal Court Opened in London by King Edward.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The new central criminal court erected on the site of the historic Newgate prison, commonly known as the Old Bailey, was opened today by King Edward, who was accompanied by Queen Alexandra. The function was a semi-state affair, and considerable ceremony was observed. The court house is an imposing structure, with a frontage on the thoroughfare known as the Old Bailey of 287 feet and 142 feet on Newgate street. It cost $1,500,000. This street corner in the centre of the city has been the site of prisons since the year 1188, and for over a century Newgate was the scene of all the public executions until the private executions act of 1868 ended the gruesome spectacles.

The King in reply to an address referred to the "barbarous penal code" administered within the walls of the old building, and said he rejoiced at the fact that this was being "gradually replaced in the progress towards higher civilization by laws breathing a more human spirit, and aiming at the noble purpose of reforming criminals by showing mercy to first offenders, which often proved the means of re-shaping their lives."

OPPOSES FAMINE RELIEF.

Strong Protest Against Administration of Nizhni-Novgorod Province.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 27.—The members-elect of Parliament from Nizhni-Novgorod yesterday drew up a strong protest against the provincial administration, which for political reasons, it is claimed, interferes with the public famine relief and prosecutes those who open free dining rooms. Similar protests are being made at Kazan.

The reports from the Caucasus famine area now include several districts. Subscriptions are being organized here and the papers are commenting sympathetically on the despatches announcing the opening of subscriptions in America.

DUE TO STRICT DISCIPLINE.

Disorders Break Out Among Convicts in Siberia Silver Mines.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 27.—Disorders have broken out among the convicts at the Akatui silver mines, province of Trans-Baikalia, southern Siberia, on account of the strict discipline. One hundred and fifty high political offenders have been placed in cabins, and many, including several women, have been removed to prisons used for the confinement of common criminals.

COFERENCE REPORT ADOPTED.

Senators Unsuccessful in Increasing Item for Mississippi River.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The Senate has agreed to the conference report on the river and harbor bill. During the consideration of the report, Senator Hopkins tried to get a re-consideration of the item appropriating $250,000 improvements in the Missippi river, between Cairo and St. Louis. The Senate provided $650,000, and Mr. Hopkins wanted this amount restored.

Mr. Cullon gave notice that he should resist the passage of any futuer river and harbor bill unles sthe Mississippi river should be adquately provided for. No chaneg was made in the item.

BUSINESS ENACTED BY HOUSE.

Navy and Army Appropriation and Ship Subsidy Bills Passed Upon.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The House today adopted the conference report on the navl appropriation bill, with the single exception of the amendment relating to the navl training station at Port Royal, S. C.

The House today went into committee of the whole for the further consideration of the ship subsidy bill.

The House today receded from its position and concurred in the Senate amendment in the army appropriation bill, providing that officers who served creditably in the regular or volunteer forces during the Civil war, and who now hold the rank of brigadier general on the active list of the army having previously held that rank for three years or more, shall when retired from active service have the rank and retired pay of major general.

THROUGHOUT NEW ENGLAND.

Public Observances in Memory of Longfellow in This Section.

BOSTON, Feb. 27.—The universal love in which Henry Wadsworth Longfellow is held was given expression throughout New England today by exercises commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of the poet's birth. In Maine, where the poet was born, and in Massachusetts, where he spent so many of the most important years of his literary life, the principal public observances were held, but there was scarcely a public school or literary society in this section which did not devote some time to the memory of the man whose works touched the common heart of humanity. The public schools of Cambridge, where the poet lived so long, devoted the entire morning session to this purpose. During the day Craigie house, which Longfellow occupied, was thrown open to the public.

The most important feature of the celebration is planned for the evening in Cambridge at Sanders Theatre, when Bliss Perry, editor of the Atlantic Monthly; President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard University, Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson, the author; Professor Charles Eliot Norton of Harvard and others are to take part.

OBSERVED IN MAINE.

Centennial Anniversary of Birth of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 27.—The centennial anniversary, today, of the birth of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, the poet, who was born in this city and lived here for 30 years, is being observed in Maine. The day's events began with exercises at Bowdoin College, from which the poet was graduated in 1825, Professor Wilmot B. Mitchell delivering an address and Professor Henry Johnson reading a poem. This afternoon occurs the dedication of the new library building of the Maine Historical Society, located in the garden of the Longfellow mansion on Congress street. By recommendation of the state superintendent of schools, special exercises were held in the schools of the state.

The members of the legislature will appropriately commemorate the event in Augusta city hall tonight. Governor William T. Cobb will preside and the speakers will include former Governor Selden Connor of Augusta and President Charles L. White, D. D., of Colby college. Portland city hall, in which the children of the parochial schools of the city gave a concert last night, will be filled this evening by an audience which will listen to introductory remarks by Mayor Nathan Clifford and an oration by former Judge Joseph W. Symonds of this city.

CASTRO MAKING PROGRESS.

Surgeons Make Complete Examination of Venezuelan President.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—According to a letter received at the Venezuelan legation today from Dr. Paul, the secretary of state, dated February 16, the surgeons have made a complete examination of President Castro, and found that he was making progress and that the wound caused by an operation was healing in a satisfactory manner.

The same letter gave the details of the killing of General Paredis, the revolutionary leader, and his followers, the statement being made that after they were captured February 21, near the Orinoco river, not very far from where they landed, they were taken to an old fortress called the Castle. Two days later Paredis endeavored to bribe his guards to permit them to escape. And this the guards interpreted as mutiny, "with terrible result for the life of General Paredis and his men, and ended unhappily for the latter for their mutiny."

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27, Wall Street—The stock market opened strong, with Amalgamated Copper at 111¼, American Locomotive 73, American Smelting 142½, Anaconda 286, Atchison 102½, Baltimore & Ohio 109¾, Brooklyn Transit 71⅝, Canadian 185, Colorado Fuel & Iron 44¾, Erie 34⅝, Great Northern preferred 182, Louisville 130, Missouri Pacific 80, Northern Pacific 147⅝, Pennsylvania 129½, Reading 117½, Rock Island 24¾, Southern Railway 25⅞, Southern Pacific 91⅜, St. Paul 145⅜, Sugar 133, Union Pacific 171¼, United States Steel 44½.

10—Opening prices of stocks moved upwards with some vigor, although the volume of dealings was moderate. Anaconda rose two, Pennsylvania, Great Northern preferred, Atchison, Chicago & Alton, Smelting and Sugar gained a point, Union Pacific, Reading, Baltimore & Ohio, Rock Island and Colorado Fuel large fractions.

12—The opening advance in prices was not maintained long, and prices fell back to where they left off yesterday or below. Missouri Pacific proved to be without effective support, and the same conditions existed to a less degree in Union Pacific, Reading, Atchison and Rock Island. After prices had fallen back substantially the selling diminished in volume and the tone became uncertain.

Noon—Money on call steady at 4½ per cent; prime mercantile paper 5¾ @ 6 per cent. Weakness in the group of Southern Railway stocks kept the general tone heavy in sympathy. The Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie stocks rose 4 to 4½. The market was dull and uninteresting. Bonds were heavy.

LIGHTSHIP AT ENTRANCE TO VINEYARD SOUND.

Congressman Greene of Fall River has secured the passage by both houses of Congress, as a separate resolution which he is trying to have incorporated by the conference committee in the sundry civil bill, of a $115,000 appropriation for a lightship near the eastern end of Hedge Fence shoal, at the entrance to Vineyard Sound. Because of dangers to navigation in that region, which is off Cottage City, now Oak Bluffs, and a summer resort for many Rhode Islanders, the Department of Commerce and Labor has recommended it. By making available only $50,000 this year, Mr. Greene has hopes of securing favorable action by the conference committee.

COLT AND WETMORE DINNERS.

After the adjournment of the General Assembly yesterday the Colt and Wetmore supporters were each entertained at dinner in Providence by friends of the two candidates who have been active in advancing their interests and espousing their respective causes in the senatorship fight.

Friends of Colonel Colt gave a dinner in his honor at the Eloise, about 80 being present. Speeches were made by Colonel Colt and others. Dainty dinner favors were a feature of the affair, which was, according to those present, an enjoyable occasion. Colonel Frank W. Tillinghast, chairman of the executive committee of the Republican state central committee, presided.

At the same hour, the supporters of Senator George Peabody Wetmore were entertained at the Narragansett Hotel, where an informal gathering was followed by a dinner. The presence of several of Senator Wetmore's friends outside the General Assembly members increased the company numerically to over 40 persons. Senator Wetmore was not present, being in attendance at Congress during the closing days of the session of the United States Senate.

"THE COLLEEN BAWN."

The St. Joseph Dramatic Club will present Boucicault's drama, "The Colleen Bawn," at the Opera House on the evenings of March 18 and 19, for the benefit of the building fund of the church. These performances will be the first given of the drama in Newport since the Unique Club staged it 13 years ago, and it is a matter of note that in the coming performances two of the male parts will be taken by men who appeared in the Unique Club's production. The play will be in charge of Mr. Arthur P. Jennings, who has had much successful experience in this line of work, and it is expected that the entertainment will prove the best ever given by the club, and those who have seen previous productions know that this is saying quite a good deal.

KNICKERBOCKERS MEET DEFEAT.

Reserves a Notch for Winners of Last Year's Championship.

Take the Game by a Score of 24 to 10—Basket Ball at Rogers High School.

The Knickerbocker Athletic Association team of New York, last year winners of the heavy wright championship of the Protective Association, went down to defeat at the armory last night, 24 to 10, in a game that was about as far from basket ball as anything seen at the armory recently. At the start the visitors began their bad work, and they continued it to the finish. After the second half had started they seemed to be doing more than in the first and finally Shea was knocked out by the knee in the stomach. Waters was called in to play back in his place and the Reserves began to sling the visitors about as they had been slinging the Reserves.

The score at this time, with four and a quarter minutes of the half gone was 14 to 8. When the game ended, 11 minutes later, the Reserves had scored 10 more points, the visitors had added one basket and had had but three chances to shoot outside of the one that counted. This showed what the Reserves could do had they chosen to play a rough game; they simply put the visitors out of the running, and there was no kneeling to it.

It was a game which was pretty at times, when the visitors had the ball because of their skill in passing and their rapid foot work. They showed that they could play the game if they wished, but they would not let their opponents win if they could stop them. There was one real "scrap" between Shea and Goward and this was continued at intervals, until finally Goward's knee put Shea out of business. Still, the visitors at times showed up brilliantly and it was only by good work in the defense that the Reserves were able to hold the score down.

Captain McMahon was out of the game on account of sickness and Dunn was played at centre, Sullivan going in at back. Dunn went back to aid the defense as soon as the ball was tossed, and seemed more at home there than trying to fill McMahon's place. He was invaluable in the defense and his long reach stopped many a well directed pass by the visitors. In the second half Sullivan was put in at centre, Dunn dropping back to his own place at back. Then Shea was hurt and Waters took his place and things hummed and the visitors were not in it.

The attendance was not as large as it might have been to see a team good enought last year to win the New York championship. Dunn started things by scoring the first basket, after Harvey had missed a foul try; then Vanderbeck evened and the score was a tie at the end of the first five minutes. In the second five minutes Harvey missed three free tries and Goward missed one. In the third five minutes Harvey scored a foul try and Vanderbeck put his team ahead with another basket; then Harvey missed and Goward scored a foul and the score was 6—4 for the visitors. Roche evened things with a basket that brought great applause, and Jenson put his team ahead with another, making the score 8—6 for the visitors, with five minutes of the first half left. Harvey then, on two successive shots, put the Reserves ahead, 10 to 8, and the noise was something to be appreciated by those present. Harvey missed a free try, then came the "scrap" between Shea and Goward and a double foul from which nothing was scored. Roche scored a basket and the half ended, 12—8, in favor of the Reserves.

The second half had been under way only 4 minutes and 15 seconds, and Sullivan had scored once, when Shea was knocked out and until the call of time there was a rough and tumble in which the visitors had the worst of it. The second half was cut to 15 minutes of play to allow the visitors to catch the New York boat.

When Shea was carried from the floor Dr. C. F. Barker, who was a spectator, went to the dressing room and examined him and found he had a bad bruise on the lower part of the abdomen. He said it was not dangerous but painful. Shea had a restless night, but is expected to be all right in a short while. The line-up was as follows:

Reserves.	Knickerbocker.
Harvey, l. f.	l. f., Grimes
Roche, r. f.	r. f., Acker
Dunn, Sullivan, c.	c., Goward
Shea, Waters, l. b.	l. b., Jensen
Sullivan, Dunn, r. b.	r. b., Vanderbeck

Score—Reserves, 24; Knickerbocker, 10. Baskets—Harvey 3, Roche 3, Dunn 3, Sullivan 1; Goward 1, Jensen 1, Vanderbeck 2. From fouls—Harvey 4; Goward 2. Missed foul tries—Harvey 8; Goward 2. Missed free tries—Reserves 44; Knickerbockers 18. Referees—Waters and Campbell. Time—20 and 15 minutes.

The Junior Middle basket ball five completely outplayed the Senior Middles yesterday afternoon at the High School gymnasium. It was the first time for two weeks that the second year team had played, but in spite of this, they had everything their own way. The first half ended with the score 16 to 0 in their favor, and they added 14 more points in the second. Stratford's basket, late in this half was the only one made by the Senior Middles.

Several boys from the Senior Middles were needed for the evening game of the first team, and therefore could not play in the afternoon. The volunteers put up a strong game, but it was a hopeless struggle for them. They had few shots at the basket, while the Junior Middles missed a large number through careless shooting. The team work of the Junior Middles was commendable. The line-up was as follows:

Junior Middles.	Senior Middles.
Freeman, r. f.	r. f., Stratford
Merrill, l. f.	l. f., Jackson
Stark, c.	c., Armstrong
R. Gibson, r. b.	r. b., Brannan
McMahon, l. b.	l. b., W. Stevens

Score—Junior Middles 30; Senior Middles 2. Goals from floor—Freeman 6, Merrill 5, Stark 4, Stratford 1. Timer—H. Stevens; Scorer—Harrington; Referee—Pitman.

Rogers High added another to its string of victories last night by defeating the Portsmouth team at the High School gymnasium, by the score of 36 to 24. In the first half, Rogers played a fine passing game and showed great improvement in team work, running up 25 points to Portsmouth's 12. The visitors played much better in the next half and led the scoring. Anthony, of last year's Rogers High School team, and Dring, who played on the second team, were seen in Portsmouth uniforms last night, and did the best work for their side. The team put on the floor by the visitors was not the regular first team, since their centre, Chace, was unable to play.

As usual, Grinnell was on hand whenever needed, and when given the chance to shoot, seldom failed to put the ball in the basket. He was ably assisted by the backs and other players, who sent the ball down to him in good form. The backs managed to score a few points on their own account, so dazed were the Portsmouth players by the fast playing of the home team.

Those who stayed away missed seeing one of the cleanest games played in the gymnasium this year. There were few fouls called, and these were mostly for holding. Those present saw some clever passing and goal shooting, although the game was not close enough to cause a great amount of excitement. The line-up was as follows:

Rogers High.	Portsmouth
Grinnell, r. f.	r. f., Dring
Babcock, H. Stevens, l. f.	l. f., G. Anthony
	c., B. C. Anthony
McLeod, c.	r. b., Watson
Harrington, r. b.	l. b., Manchester
Chace, Kerr, l. b.	High School 36;

Score—Rogers Portsmouth 24. Goals from floor—Grinnell 8, Babcock 2, McLeod 4, Harrington, Chace; Dring 3, G. Anthony 8, B. C. Anthony. From fouls—Grinnell, Babcock. Timer—V. Tallman. Scorer—Merrill. Referee—Pitman.

Yesterday was the day for basket ball at the High school. After the game with Portsmouth, the team of the Junior class won a game from a team composed chiefly of men from the Crescents. The Juniors had the ball in their possession most of the time and played the Crescents off their feet. The final score was 36 to 8. The line-up was as follows:

Juniors.	Crescents
Martland, r. f.	r. f., Teaze
Walsh, l. f.	l. f., Edwards
Olivea, c.	c., Underwood
Sullivan, r. b.	r. b., Sullivan
Barker, Aldred, l. b.	l. b., McGinn, Contant.

Goals from floor—Martland 11, Olivea 5, Sullivan 2, Edwards, Underwood 2, McGinn. Scorer—Langley. Referee—Pitman.

The Ex-Camdens are scheduled to play next Saturday.

Tonight there promises to be another lively game, when the Winsted, Conn., team plays the Holy Name. The visitors think they are good enough to be champions of Connecticut and of New England.

STATE LIBRARIANS IN SESSION.

Officers of Rhode Island Association Elected and Reports and Papers Read.

Librarians from all over the state gathered at the Providence Public Library for the annual meeting of the Rhode Island Library Association. President Harry L. Koopman, librarian of Brown University, presided. In the afternoon the session was continued in the rooms of the Rhode Island Historical Society on Waterman street, when the annual election of officers took place.

In opening the meeting at the Public Library, President Koopman gave an interesting review of the year in library work. The trend of events has shown the great value of the Rhode Island Association, the formation of which only three years ago will might be said to mark an epoch in the literature history of the state, he said.

After Mr. Koopman's address the several libraries represented reported, giving the condition of affairs and the progress everywhere. Twenty-six libraries were represented, including the People's Library of this city and the Naval War College Library. These reports occupied the greater part of the forenoon, so that the election was deferred until the afternoon session. This began at two o'clock at the Historical Society rooms. The election was as follows: President—Harry L. Koopman, Brown University; First Vice President—W. C. Greene, Peace Dale; Second Vice President—Miss Anne H. Ward, Woonsocket; Secretary and Treasurer—H. O. Brigham, state librarian; Executive Committee—Miss Mary E. S. Root, Providence; Mrs. Emma S. Bradford, Barrington, and George U. Arnold, Bristol.

After the election an interesting paper was read by Sam Walter Foss, librarian of the Somerville, Mass., library. His subject was "Man Before Mechanism: A Librarian's First Duty is to His Public," and he discussed the best methods of educating the public through libraries. A general discussion of the subject followed, the first speaker being Frederick C. Hicks of the Naval War College Library. He was followed by Miss Mary E. S. Root and H. O. Brigham.

Sam Walter Foss and Charles W. Jencks were unanimously elected to honorary membership. William E. Foster presented a resolution on the death of Rev. Charles J. White of Woonsocket, a member of the association which was adopted. The reports of several committees were presented. The secretary's report showed the present membership to be 126. The report of the treasurer showed the association to be in excellent condition.

GEM

Incandescent Lamp Units

Are the most economical for store and shop lighting. They will give twice the useful light of an ordinary incandescent lamp with the same consumption of current. This is due to the design of the Holophane Pagoda shades, which are designated to be used with this Special Lamp, and to the lamp itself, the lamp consuming but 2.5 watts per candle power.

We will be pleased to furnish GEM UNITS on trial to all customers.

The complete unit is inexpensive in cost and operation.

Ladies' SUITS, WAISTS —AND— SKIRTS For 1907.

DISTINCTIVE SUITS, SKIRTS and WAISTS.

Ever hear of M. Angelo? His glory lies not in the fine marble he used but in what he wrought of the marble. Michael believed in taking infinite pains with the little details. So do we in the tailoring of our Suits, Skirts and Waists regardless of their price. Any one may share the glory of using fabrics as fine as ours. That is not our all. If it were we would not boast of our modest prices. They are more than justified by the style in which we design our garments and the expressive tailoring with which we fashion them even unto the little details. You may be as conservative as a Quaker with your suit, or skirt, or waist, or as radical as good taste will permit. Our models will go to both extremes. That is so of the Fabrics too.

L. W. Cowdery.
